Global Scholar Requirements

Each of the following items is required to earn the Global Scholar honor and/or compete for a Global Scholar prize. Please be sure that you meet the eligibility criteria in addition to submitting the required materials below:

- Participation in international program(s) that involve travel outside the United States for a minimum 10 weeks
- Minimum 3.50 overall USC GPA *
- Degree completion within five years
- Capstone Project
- Reflective Essay

Your materials will be certified by your school. Certification will be based on the school specific criteria.

You may compete for the Global Scholar prize if you expect to achieve the 3.50 GPA requirement after your last semester. However, prizes will be awarded after a post-graduation confirmation of successful completion of the academic and time-to-degree requirements.

International Programs

You must have spent a minimum of ten weeks abroad as part of your undergraduate experience to be eligible for the Global Scholar honor. These ten weeks can be a combination of one or more programs, whether academic, work experience, or service learning.

Note that each program will be verified regarding the duration of the program, and the legitimacy of the program if it is non-USC affiliated, e.g. an international internship, or volunteer experience.

If you are listing a non-USC program, upload verification documents at the bottom of the page. Examples include program admission letter, and flight itineraries.

- the name and date of an event or contest where your project was or will be entered
- any awards or honors your project has received, including departmental recognition, research fellowships, etc.

List of publication and/or recognition:

Reflective Essay

Submit a brief reflective essay (no more than 3 pages, double-spaced, 12pt font) in which you reflect upon your international experience and the transformative impact it has had upon your development and learning at USC. This essay should contextualize your experience abroad and include thoughts on how your global experiences have had a major impact on your academic life at USC as well as your future as a scholar and citizen.

When writing your reflective essay, we invite you to consider how your experience(s) might reflect USC's Global Learning outcomes.

Use the following naming protocol when uploading your document: Last Name, First Name - Reflective Essay

Your file should be a PDF or Word document.

Capstone Project

Use the following naming protocol when uploading your file:
